

Smithsonian Kite Festival

On a cold and blustery day the bravest members of AKAC set off for the Cherry Blossom – Kite Festival on the mall.

The official Cherry blossom bandstand at the Jefferson Memorial was packed with performers and the crowds.

Two hip, brave A kickers (Dan and Ari) admired the one cherry tree in blossom on this lovely spring day in Washington.

The frozen A Kickers journeyed to the frigid tundra of the mall to observe the Smithsonian Kite Festival for 2 minutes before fleeing to the Museum of Natural History for hot beverages and gelato.

Everyone in the museum cafeteria was thrilled to witness the presentation of the Freakin' Hiker A Kicking Top-Secret but very cool prize!!!

Steph A., code name “meet me in the Congo for Techno night”, was the first to receive nine stickers on her Freakin' Hiker Program Card and was awarded the special A Kicking Coffee mug.

The club found the educational exhibits vastly enlightening and entertaining. “What’s for dinner, honey?”

Fun was had by all in all of the Museum gift shops

Holy monkey
on my neck, Batman!!

I simply MUST have this fuzzy, elephant bag!

This will go really well with my hiking boots.

Venturing thru the perilous wilds of the lobby, the gang was pale with terror at the near mammoth sized accident waiting to happen.

Lee and Steph the dyslexia twins say to y'all "Gator Later!!!!"
