

A-kicking trip #2 -- Back-to-office report

May 16, 2004

Hear ye, hear ye, the WBI A-kicking Hiking Club completed our second hike last Sunday afternoon. Eleven brave naturalists traversed the Potomac Heritage National Scenic Trail at Turkey Run Park in Virginia. The trail led us through beautiful scenery, across streams, along narrow ledges (where the four-legged member of our squad made her best attempt at knocking unsuspecting hikers off the trail), down to the edge – literally – of the Potomac River, and up and down gentle hills. In fact, the trail was so gentle that some of us ended up wanting more! Luckily the next WBI AKHC event is not far off. Stay tuned for more information.

Thanks to Megan for supplying refreshments for hungry hikers, and also for the extra-cool Smokey the Bear temporary tattoos. Only YOU can prevent forest fires.

An action shot – look at the raw athleticism in motion here. This is one of the many stream crossings on the Potomac Heritage Trail.
