

A** Kicking Adventure #32

Catoctin Mtn Park, Md

December 10, 2005

As usual, a group of intrepid a** kickers meets in Dupont Circle early one Saturday morning to prepare for the cold-weather expedition. Dogsled? Check. Snowshoes? Check. St. Bernard rescue dog with brandy flask? Check. Ok, we're ready to set off!

I'm so excited and I just can't hide it!

How many miles
through the rain,
sleet and snow did she say?

Snow angel break....

Megan and Jillian bravely test the footing to ensure safety for all

Dude! You put the a** in crevasse!

Catoctin Mountain
claimed by AKAC'ers
Jeffrey and David

Lunch break on Wolf Rock! Luckily, there were no wolves nearby. Just two ferocious and very cold domestic dogs.

Our attempts to order Pizza were foiled. For some reason they don't do mountain top deliveries

Lee showcases the perfect holiday gift for friends and family. Get them now before they're gone!

HOOAH! You're gonna eat it! And you're gonna like it!

Megan demonstrates the true meaning of LAYERS! “I’m soooo toasty warm.”

Dog's best friend

And now it's time to play Name that Substance!
Answers listed below.

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.

1. Blood from vicious dog fight; 2. Gatorade spill due to flying friends; 3. No idea so better not ask; 4. chilled carrot; 5. Wild Lettuce bush, although some say it doesn't grow on trees like money.

After hiking hours through knee-deep snow, Ludovic and Megan collapse on the trail

But never fear all a** kickers made it out alive and with all their toes and fingers.

Voted cutest couple at Cracker Barrel. Notice the matching sweaters.

That will be One Million Dollars...

Lee demonstrates how to put sugar in coffee. Notice the superb balance technique with her right hand.

Dinner a la Cracker Barrel

Like this, right?

Ma and Pa Kettle?

When I was a boy.....

More holiday gift suggestions...

May not be suitable for children under 15

Notable Quotes from the day:

“Dude, you haven’t been feeding your lizard.”
(Lee to David)

“Are you gonna share my cookies with me?”
(Megan to Dan)

“Is that a vest?” (grab, grab, grab)
(Megan to Lee)

“Dude!” (Jeffery – Jeffrey is quitting his job as a girl scout leader to write a book on the many uses of the word Dude)

“Is the skin supposed to come off?”